Greely Institute.

TRUSTEES' REPORT.

The Trustees of Greely Institute are pleased to report to the people of Cumberland the result of their efforts since they took charge of the school.

The general condition of the school and of its affairs were in an unsatisfactory condition and the school building badly out of repair, both inside and out, even dilapidated in some respects when the Trustees took charge. So fast as means could be had, without going in debt, the most needed repairs have been made. The exterior of the building has been painted, the main hall has been papered and varnished, a room in the basement has been finished for the agricultural course, the blackboards have been replaced by slate, new chairs have been placed in the class rooms and the roof of the building repaired. There are other repairs and changes which should be made as rapidly as possible. Every portion of the interior of the building which has not received attention should be thoroughly renovated, so as to render the building sanitary, comfortable and attractive, and the old furniture replaced by new.

The financial affairs of the Institute have been strictly looked after and show fair condition, as reported by the Treasurer. We need larger funds to enable us to accomplish the best results. We are confident that when the improvement already made and the needs of the school become fully appreciated the necessary funds will be forthcoming.

The report of Mr. Jordan relating to the educational interests and needs of the school should be carefully read.

We should fail in our duty did we not mention the excellent work which Mr. Jordan has done in his department. He has co-operated with the Trustees in every way for the best interests of the school.

The Trustees wish to express their appreciation of the loyalty of the Town of Cumberland and its generous aid in the efforts which have been made for the improvement and upbuilding of the school. Surely it will not fail of great returns eventually for its willing co-operation.

The educational standing and general morale of the Institute have improved so much with the small effort which has been made that great promise is given of its future educational work and extended influence.

Respectfully submitted,

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL.

PROGRESS.

The past year at Greely Institute has been a successful one in many respects. The support of the Trustees, alumni and friends of the school has enthused teachers and pupils alike to strive for the best possible results. Continued co-operation of all persons and bodies interested will, in the course of a few years, show a decided improvement in all branches of the school work.

The school has maintained its standing with the State Department of Education and with the New England College Entrance Certificate Board. The graduating class last June had ten members, two of whom have entered college and two the State Normal School at Gorham. All of these students are doing creditable work in the institutions they are attending. At least two more of this class intend to enter college next fall.

An essay written by Mr. Whitman, formerly of the present senior class, won first prize at the Annual Convention of the Maine Dairymen's Association. Mr. Hatch represented the school at the Convention of the Maine Seed Improvement Society, and won second prize in the boys' contest for judging potatoes.

In addition to the prescribed course, a Farmer's Lecture Course is being conducted one evening each week in the general assembly room. The meetings of this course are open to all, and should prove interesting and instructive to all who attend.

The enrollment of students is small this year because the elementary schools of the town offered no entering class. The smaller number of pupils, however, allows each one to receive a correspondingly larger proportion of the teacher's attention.

TEACHERS.

The Trustees have been especially fortunate in retaining Miss Cameron as lady assistant, and in procuring for the present year the services of Mr. Abbott to have charge of the agricultural department. Both of these teachers have received high praise from the State Inspector of High Schools and from the Trustees themselves. The writer cannot say too much in personal appreciation of their earnest and conscientious endeavors to make the school year successful.

ALUMNI.

The interest of the Alumni Association during the past year is worthy of the highest commendation from all the friends of the school. The Association has purchased Union Hall, to be used as a gymnasium for the school. This building, with comparatively inexpensive repairs, can be used for many years for the athletic interests of the school. It is possible that it may also be used for courses in domestic science and manual training, if those courses should be introduced in later years.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

One of the most urgent needs of the school is the installation of a water system. It is difficult indeed to conduct the courses in agriculture and the sciences with no water in the building. A good supply of water would add much to the comfort and convenience of the pupils and would minimize the danger from fire. Extensive additions to the equipment in the agricultural and physics laboratories is of next importance. The value of the individual experimental work is being realized more each year, and modern apparatus is essential for this work.

The courses in agriculture have proved successful and practical for the boys in the school and should be continued. It is just as important that courses in domestic science, equally practical, should be offered to the girls. Probably at least one-half of the girls who attend Greely Institute do not continue their education in higher institutions. If the school can provide any course that will better fit girls for making homes of their own it will be taking an advance step.

Respectfully submitted,

DANA S. JORDAN,

Principal.

Report of Superintendent of Schools.

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of Cumberland:

In every enterprise man labors for results. The success of any undertaking is measured by what it produces. If the results are unsatisfactory, the undertaking is a whole or partial failure. Our schools should have an object in view, namely, to produce the highest grade of citizenship. This is done by affording each person the chance to make the best man or woman he or she is capable of becoming. This is brought about by three things, the acquirement of knowledge, the development of our mental powers, and the formation of character. The parents of our children, and the community in general, have a right to know how the school is succeeding in its mission. They must judge by such indications as make themselves apparent from time to time. We have endeavored in the past to bring before the people some of the work done by the pupils in our schools, by having either a school exhibition, embracing the work done by all the schools in town, or by having a "parents' day" in each separate school for this same purpose. The town of Cumberland now has a school system second to none. With our permanently established grammar school our children can now advance step by step until they are fitted for college in their home town.

Teachers.

It is a serious thing to choose the profession of teaching. The young man or woman who does so should consider very carefully his or her fitness. The most rigid examination one should be called upon to pass is self-examination. Before accepting such a responsible position we should ask ourselves a few questions. Is my character such as to justify me in choosing this profession? Are my habits of life fit to be an example for the pupils to follow who are under my charge? What is my motive in desiring to teach? Is it money, or personal preferment or any other selfish end? Do I love children? Not the lovable ones only, but all with whom I have to deal. And above all, do I love my work? We have teachers in Cumberland who love the profession and their services should be retained. At the commencement of the year, in September, we were confronted with several vacancies. On the mainland we were obliged to elect an entirely new staff. We were very fortunate in our selection, and with one or two exceptions we have an excellent teaching force. Miss Drisko, after six years of successful service in No. 13, was promoted to the grammar school, and had the honor of being the first teacher to begin work in the new grammar school building.

Teachers must not lose sight of the fact in both manners and morals the scholars are looking to them as an example. Little courtesies, like "please" and "thank you", should be insisted upon, whether the pupils are speaking to the teacher or to each other.

Text-books and Supplies.

We have purchased the usual number of books, and the necessary supplies needed. The old worn-out books have been replaced by new. The books used by the little people last but a short time, as they soon tire of a torn or badly soiled book and want a new one.

Repairs and Improvements.

The necessary repairs have been made. Something must be done very soon to the Shawtown schoolhouse, as it leaks in several places. The No. 7 building also leaks, and as the ceiling is badly stained in several places it should be repapered. These two buildings can be made cosy and attractive at small expense. We hope a building large enough to store a year's supply of fuel will be erected at No. 2.

The New Grammar School Building.

The erection and opening of the new grammar school building at the Centre marks an important school epoch in the history of the town. This attractive building, located upon a pleasant site, will be the home of our children who have reached the most important period of their lives. The value of such a school cannot be overestimated, and pleasant surroundings are among the strong educational incentives of the present generation. For a one-room building this is one of the best. The most approved requirements regarding light, heat and ventilation are fully met; the sanitary arrangements are good, and the playground, when finished, will be ample. The community may fairly expect the best service, both of those who care for the building and those who teach or direct the work of the pupils. A town's intelligence and public spirit is shown in nothing more clearly than in the way it provides for the education of its children. Cumberland is very fortunate in having members of the School Board who have acted as a building committee who have conceived and carried into execution plans for a building which so fitly express in form and purpose the best ideals of the town. No one who has not served on a committee of this kind can realize the amount of time and effort required in looking after an undertaking of this kind.

Chebeague High School.

The progress made in this school has been all that could be expected. Under the able management of Miss Cooley the work has been thoroughly done, and the school spirit has pervaded the community to a greater extent than usual. A two years' Latin course has been added to the curriculum. Pupils who contemplate taking the two years' course in some other school, after graduating from this one, will find this a decided advantage.

Conclusion.

The chief business of any state or community is the education and training of its children. It means patience, effort and sacrifice. It can be fully accomplished only when all the social and individual forces in the community work together in harmony for this common end—to make each generation stronger and better than the one that preceded it. Nothing is too good for our children.

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL.

The progress of the school during the past year has been generally satisfactory. The standing of the school with the State Department of Education and with the higher institutions of learning, which its graduates have entered, has been maintained.

The provision of the long needed water supply has materially improved the opportunity for doing good work in the laboratories and has added much to the general convenience of the pupils. New furniture has been provided for the library. The list of reference books has been considerably increased and several good magazines have been subscribed for the reading table.

The work in agriculture this year comprises courses in the study of soils, fruit growing, field crops and vegetable gardening. One interesting feature of this work is the attempt to have a garden on the school grounds. The citizens of the community should be interested to watch the progress of this garden and to encourage and aid the work in whatever way they can.

A course in sewing under the direction of Mrs. Seavey has been introduced and has been very successful. This course seems to provide practical instruction for girls who do not contemplate the pursuit of a college education. The necessary equipment for this course has been provided and the equipment for the courses in agriculture and physics has been somewhat enlarged. There has been but little change in the other courses of the curriculum.

The courses in agriculture and domestic science should be extended to those lines of work of most direct value to the boys and girls of Cumberland. The youth of today are the citizens of tomorrow. One important duty of a school is to train its pupils for their future work. While the majority of the pupils of Greely Institute may spend their lives on the farms and in the homes of their native town, some wish to prepare themselves for advanced study in the various professions and trades. These students must not be neglected. Their course of study must be just as carefully arranged and their instruction just as thorough as that of the others.

The recommendations of last year in regard to improvements in the building and equipment were adopted as completely as the trustees were able. Better light in the recitation room and in the library should be provided if possible. A new floor would add much to the attractiveness of the hall, and the old settees in the hall should be replaced by modern recitation chairs. Some money could be wisely spent in the care of the shade trees and grounds. It is safe to believe, however, that these needs will be met by the trustees as fast as their finances will permit.

In conclusion, I wish to thank the alumni, the teachers and the trustees for their hearty co-operation in all that pertains to the welfare of the school.

Respectfully submitted,

DANA S. JORDAN.

Report of Superintendent of Schools.

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of the Town of Cumberland:

It is difficult to prepare a brief report of the condition of our schools, without repeating some points which have been made emphatic in past years. One leading fact always suggests itself to us all in relation to our school system; this fact may be made more suggestive by putting it in the form of a question. Are our schools preparing our children for life? that is the broader life which the present demands of her citizens. At first a boy or girl has only a responsibility as a part of his home and then his school. Soon, however, he must bear responsibility as a part of his community, his county and his country. In order to do his part well he must have thought and studied. Many of our children do not really learn to think or study until the last two years in the grammar school. This is why we advocate so strongly the taking of the full grammar school course instead of trying to do two years' work in one and missing that practical part which is obtained only in the grammar school. Education has been defined by a practical farmer as just one simple thing: "It is what teaches a person how to live." An education teaches us how to get the most out of life. It gives us judgment about people. It brings us appreciation of all that is true and beautiful. It prepares us to make a living. It helps us to set our standards high. It helps us to live as we ought to live. The work of the school should be planned so as to meet these requirements.

We often meet people who compare the schools of the present with those of the past. The discussion usually fails to convince them that "times have changed" and that the rapid progress in all departments of life has proved a success with the exception of our school department. We find opposition to modern school buildings, up-to-date apparatus, school libraries, ornamental school grounds, etc., and words of commendation, by these same people, for those who improve their homes, use modern machinery to do their farm work, and modern utensils for the household and the dairy.

There is happiness and success in doing things together. School is the first place to learn the lesson and it is one of the most important parts of the education which school can give. Co-operation on the part of pupils, parents, teachers and school officials makes our schools a place of happiness and success for all concerned.

Teachers.

The past year has been one of unusual success for the schools of Cumberland. An efficient teaching staff, backed by the interest of the parents, has made the work successful and excellent progress has been made in all departments. Our teachers are those of several years' experience or those who have had normal school training. Since the commencement of the school year in September we have made but one change. Miss Cornish resigned at the close of the fall term and Miss Doris Chapman was elected to take her place. It is again necessary to advocate what we have so strongly recommended in the past, the increase of wages in order to keep our trained teachers. The demand for such teachers is so great that superintendents from New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts make frequent visits to the normal schools and teachers' agencies of Maine and offer them salaries so much larger than we are paying that our best teachers are leaving the State. Our rural schools require our best teachers and they must be paid for their services in proportion to the experience or training they have had.

Text-Books and Supplies.

The attendance in the island schools has been large, requiring several new books. On the mainland we have kept the schools well supplied and the new books have been appreciated and well cared for by a majority of the pupils. "The Progressive Road to Reading", used by the teacher in No. 13, has proved a wonderful success in that particular school; the advancement made by the first two grades has been such as to lead me to make special mention of the work accomplished.

Repairs and Improvements.

The Junction schoolhouse has been put in excellent condition with the exception of a few interior repairs which will be attended to the coming year. A new building for the housing of the wood has been built at No. 2 and the grammar school building painted. The largest expenditure for repairs the coming year will have to be made on the Shawtown schoolhouse. The building was shingled this year but it must be painted, new closets built, and other necessary repairs made. Quite an amount of damage has been done to this building by the breaking of locks, door latches, etc., by strangers, owing to its close proximity to the electric railroad. The high school building on the Island should be painted this year.

Grammar School Pupils.

It has been necessary to allow our grammar school pupils to enter the high school, both on the Island and the mainland, at the close of the eighth year. This does not give them the preparation that we should like for them to have before entering these schools, as our grammar school course is a four years' course. A new course of study prepared by the State Department has been looked forward to with much interest as we were desirous of knowing whether this would be an eight or a nine year course. It has been received, recently, and is a nine year course, five in the primary and four in the grammar grades, the same as the course used for the past five years, this making it a problem difficult of solution for your superintendent. How to condense this course, so that all eighth grade pupils can enter the high school at the close of that year and not lose so much that is of practical use to them, is a question hard to settle. We hope the action of your committee and superintendent in this matter in the past has met with your approval.

Chebeague High School.

We were able to secure the services of Miss Cooley for another year; this means extra advancement in this school. The work accomplished is already showing the great advantage of being able to retain the services of a successful teacher for a series of years. Mr. Taylor, inspector of high schools, spoke in the highest terms of the ability and faithfulness of this teacher and the successful year of high school work, and congratulated the people of the town of Cumberland on being able to continue her in this school.

Conclusion.

The attendance the past year, until the winter term, has been excellent. Owing to sickness among teachers and pupils, the winter term has been a broken one. The interest has been good. It is well to keep an eye out for any depression of spirits among the pupils. Sometimes a pupil absents himself from school for a day because he became discouraged the day before. Every one has his trials and difficulties. Some are much more easily discouraged than others. They should have just the word they need, whether it be praise or blame or sympathy. Some have to struggle very hard to keep pace with their classmates. A smile, a nod, or a word now and then will keep their courage to the sticking point. Notice every good effort and reward it with some kind of recognition. The best teachers are those who inspire their pupils to heroic efforts. Since they cannot measure their own success, the teacher must point it out to them. Show them some of the difficult things they have mastered, and if they excel in only one thing, be sure you encourage them in that one. Make it plain to them that the future will be no more difficult than the past if they are ready to meet the future bravely. Let your motto be—"Do one thing at a time and do it well".

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL.

The school year, closing in June, 1916, was in general a very satisfactory one. The graduating class was very small, having but two members. Consequently the graduation exercises failed to arouse as much interest among the townspeople as exists some years. One pleasing feature of these exercises was a very interesting address by Hon. E. C. Reynolds. In striking contrast to the class of 1916, the present Senior class is one of the largest, if not the largest, in the history of the school. This class has taken an active interest in all that has pertained to the general improvement of the school during the past four years, and deserves the patronage and support of every loyal graduate and friend.

The courses in agriculture and the sciences this year are being very successfully conducted by Mr. Norman L. Mathews. In agriculture the first and second year pupils are studying animal husbandry, dairying being emphasized. The Senior class is studying farm management. These courses are made practical by work in the laboratory, on the school garden, and by studying conditions on the farms of the community.

The pupils studying household economics this year are becoming very much interested in sewing and household management, under the direction of Miss Lucile G. Clark. During the fall term the trustees hired the new house belonging to Mr. Osgood for a dormitory for the girls. Miss Clark has charge of the house and instructs the girls in practical housekeeping there. The classes in sewing are conducted in the hall, as last year.

The trustees and teachers cordially invite all parents and friends to visit the school often and make any suggestions they may think will lead to greater efficiency in any of the courses. The school spirit of the students this year is the best I have ever known. How much it might be increased by a more definite knowledge of all school affairs on the part of the parents I cannot estimate. First hand information as to the needs and work of each class would tend to arouse the support of all interested citizens for any just and reasonable requests of the trustees.

During last summer electric lights were installed in the Institute, new floors were laid in the hall and chemical laboratory, a new bookcase was placed in the library, and minor repairs were made. A new piano was purchased for the hall with money from the Alumni Music Fund, and the old piano was placed in the girls' dormitory. The more immediate needs for the next year are a better system of ventilation, new furniture in the hall, and extensive additions to the equipment of the physics, agricultural and domestic science laboratories. At the gymnasium electric lights should be installed and more satisfactory heating arrangements should be provided.

The needs of the school, with the present high prices, will possibly require a larger appropriation from the town than has previously been necessary. It is earnestly hoped that the citizens of Cumberland will co-operate with the trustees to improve the school in every way possible.

Report of the Superintendent of Schools.

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of the Town of Cumberland :

The sixth annual report of the public schools of Cumberland, by the present incumbent of the office of Superintendent, is respectfully submitted for your consideration.

It is my purpose, in the space allotted me, to give a brief summary of educational tendencies and their bearing upon certain phases of the work as carried on in this town.

Our public schools are constantly assuming greater responsibilities. We often converse with parents who are depending almost entirely upon our public schools for the moral training of their children. They frankly confess that the school influence is greater than the home influence. The two cannot be separated ; the home and the school must work together. Out of the 180,000 hours between birth and the age of legal maturity, the child spends an average of only 7,000 hours in school ; the rest are passed in the home or in home environment. This being the case, you can readily see that too much of the responsibility in this one direction is being placed on the schools. The schools can do some things better than the home. They can teach the fundamental studies commonly taught in our public schools in a more systematic and effective way than can the average home. This is what our public schools are established and supported for. But there are hundreds of other things the school cannot teach at all for lack of time and the necessary conditions ; thus the parent and the teacher must be in full sympathy with each other, and when any misunderstanding arises, talk the matter over in such a way that the result shall tell for the betterment of the child and the community life, rather than a detriment. With this spirit of co-operation in mind, visit our schools often, get acquainted with the teachers and their methods, and, above all, extend a few words of sympathy and appreciation of what the teachers by faithful, hard work are trying to do for the children, and you will have the satisfaction of noting how much the efficiency of the schools can be increased by such visitation.

Teachers.

Our list of teachers is one that can be placed among the best. We have normal graduates or teachers of several years' experience in all our schools. A desire to improve their teaching power and to study their problems in the light of modern methods prevails among all our teachers. Increasingly the truth is recognized that the teacher needs special preparation for her high work. The ability to awaken interest and hold the pupil's attention is due to the teacher's thorough knowledge of the subject in hand. Her interest in the lessons taught begets interest in the pupils, their interest secures attention, and interest and attention insure application and progress. This element of good teaching is on the increase in our Cumberland schools. Our teachers of long experience are often seen going from the school building with their arms filled with books, in order that they may be thoroughly familiar with lessons to be taught the next day. They have learned the fact that children wish to drink from a running stream and not from a stagnant pool. The teacher who enters the school room in the morning with her lessons well prepared is light-hearted, teaches joyously all day, and then, locking all care inside, goes away to prepare herself for to-morrow's teaching.

Since the opening of the schools at the beginning of the school year we have had but one resignation. Much to the regret of all, Miss Robinson, teacher in No. 13, resigned at the end of the fall term to accept a position in South Portland. Mrs. Lillian M. Nickels, a teacher of several years' experience and special training, was employed to fill the vacancy.

Repairs and Improvements.

A fine lot was purchased early in the year and the No. 4 schoolhouse moved on to it, and the building put in condition for occupancy October 2. When a few more exterior improvements are made, and the interior papered and painted, this will be a very pleasant room.

The needs the coming year will be at No. 2. The wood-work should be re-varnished, new inside doors provided and new shades for the windows.

On the island, the West End school building should be painted the coming year, and a new floor is much needed in the main room at the East End.

The Junction school building has been made attractive, cheerful and homelike, much to the delight of all concerned. Children coming from our modern homes of refinement and culture appreciate the new school atmosphere.

Grammar School.

The grammar school for the past year has been in charge of the successful instructor, Miss Mildred E. Clarke. The work has been carried on in the same excellent manner that has characterized the efforts of preceding teachers. Music, which has added much to the interest of the school, has been taught very successfully, and with the help of the piano recently purchased by the school we anticipate even greater results.

Efforts were made by the committee to have all grammar grade pupils attend this school, but we failed to get the co-operation of all in this endeavor, and we failed of accomplishing what we felt was for the good of all concerned. A large class will go from this school to the high school next fall, and we hope their places will be filled by pupils from the other schools who ought to have the special training that this school is able to give before entering the high school. We ask the hearty co-operation of all Cumberland citizens in the support of this school.

Chebeague High School.

Miss Cooley has been continued as teacher of this school, much to the satisfaction of the island people. This means added efficiency each year. Not only more but better work can be accomplished by retaining the services of a capable teacher from year to year. The great need of this school is more books for the reference library. Mr. Taylor, agent for secondary education, has recently sent out letters asking that this matter be brought before the town and that a special appropriation be made for this special purpose, therefore in our list of recommendations we have asked for $30.00.

Flags.

The law requires that all schools shall be provided with flags, and that the town shall appropriate annually a sufficient amount to defray the necessary cost of the display of the flag. The new grammar school building and No. 13 should be provided for this year. We have asked for $25.00.

CLINTON M. HAMILTON,

School Report.

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of the Town of Cumberland :

I have the pleasure of submitting my annual report for your consideration of the condition of our schools and the work done during the past year. We have faced some rather difficult problems, but they have been adjusted in the best way possible. The scarcity of trained or experienced teachers has placed your superintendent and committee in a position appreciated only by those who have passed through a like experience. We were obliged to make changes in nearly all our schools. At the beginning of the school year, in September, we were confronted with the unpleasant fact that our best teachers had been offered and had accepted grade positions or had given up the teaching profession. The only teacher on the main land that taught in town last year is Miss Anderson, of the Tuttle Road school. The other schools are supplied with teachers, the best that we could get for the salaries paid and the limited list from which we had to make our selections. Some of the vacancies occurred only a few days before the opening of the schools, thus making the solution of the problem much more difficult. Our State Superintendent has notified us that the securing of good teachers the coming year will be a more serious proposition than ever before, and advises the retaining of the present teaching force, where satisfaction has been given, by paying such teachers an increase in salary and offering every inducement consistent with good business propositions.

"In time of peace prepare for war." This saying has been deeply impressed upon the world during the past year. Our schools have been called upon to add their bit to this great work of saving the world for democracy. In every emergency it is customary to call upon our public schools for the training of our children, for whole-hearted citizenship is the great work of the present. The times demand solid work; the time of fads and fancies is past. Vocational education appeals to the common people stronger to-day than ever before; literature, art and science are giving way to those more practical studies that teach men how to get the necessities of life, food, raiment, etc.

Progress.

There has been, during the last decade, a great enrichment of the course in reading through the introduction of excellent reading books. They are made so attractive, such real works of art, that pupils delight to read. The books are so beautifully illustrated that the child is eager to know what the story tells about such wonderful things. Good progress has been made in all grades. The "reform movement," so called, in arithmetic does not appeal to all. Many of our modern text-books eliminate a number of rules that were formerly considered as essential but are now regarded as non-essential. We have required our teachers to take up all that they consider practical and teach the pupils the right way of finding out things for themselves. I have suggested the use of Colburn's Mental Arithmetic in several of our schools, and a decided improvement in analysis is noticed. The other branches have been made interesting, and profitable results have followed.

Discipline.

The public opinion of the school is an important element in discipline, and the teacher with tact will direct this power to the side of order and right doing. Many boys, especially those of the grammar school age, are influenced by the opinions of their fellows more than by the decisions of their teachers. The majority of teachers like to regard their pupils as truthful until they have positive evidence to the contrary. Pupils with a high sense of honor do not easily forget when accused unjustly. On the other hand, the pupil without any apparent sense of honor must be censured, and the teacher must have the support of the entire community.

Repairs and Improvements.

The repairs and improvements suggested last year have been attended to by your committee, and our school buildings are now in fairly good condition.

The needs the coming year will be a new floor in the West End school, Chebeague; the woodwork revarnished and some new windows at No. 3; one side of the roof shingled at No. 2, and the outside of No. 4 painted.

The interior of No. 2 and of No. 4 has been made very attractive, and I am pleased to report that the teacher and pupils in those schools have taken much pride in keeping them neat and tidy.

Chebeague High School.

This has been the most successful year in the history of this school. Miss Cooley returned for another year, thus making it possible to have the work go on without a break. The pupils have been much interested in their work, and the morale of the school is excellent. We hope to be able to provide more reference books for the library this year.

A class of four graduated in June. The exercises were held in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Wednesday evening, June 6, 1917, at eight o'clock, and the following program was very beautifully rendered.

	Music.
Prayer,		Rev. J. R. Remick
	Music.
Salutatory—Essay, "Great Chebeague,"	Dannietta Doughty Miller
Music,	Orchestra
Class History,	Edna Viona Ricker

Music,	Orchestra
Valedictory—Essay, "Thomas Edison,"	Mattie Frances Mansfield
	Class Ode.
Presentation of Diplomas,		Supt. D. W. Lunt
	Music.
	Benediction.

Class motto: "En Avant."
Class colors: Green and white.

The orchestra of eight pieces was furnished by Mrs. Edward L. Pickard, of Westbook, a summer resident, whose interest and generosity are highly appreciated by the island people and by the school officials.

Respectfully submitted,

D. W. LUNT, Supt.

Greely Institute.

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL.

The 1917 graduating exercises were attended by the departure from the school of one of the largest, if not the largest, classes in the history of Greely Institute, eighteen students receiving their diplomas from the institution. We have all of us felt this loss very keenly this year, as the class of 1917 contained some very earnest workers, young men and women who have taken a very strong interest in the welfare and future of the school. However, to offset this loss, twenty new students appeared for enrollment at the beginning of the school year to begin their preparations for a life work.

Conditions, social, economic and civic, are changing so rapidly that a frequent readjustment is needed in order to keep apace with the principles of modern education, and it is indeed very gratifying to note that Greely Institute has benefited by such changes to no small degree during the past year. The courses offered in agriculture and domestic science are no longer regarded as an experiment but as a fixture, and their presence in the curriculum of the school is as necessary as those treating of mathematics, English, etc. In our present conditions of home life the importance of these studies is shown by the amount of interest shown, practically all of the boys and girls of the school being enrolled in either the agricultural or domestic science courses, and the results attained are certainly being felt by the parents in the homes and by others in the community. Courses in agriculture this year deal with soils and crops, and horticulture; those in domestic science with cooking and sewing. Great care has been taken to make these industrial subjects as instructive and practical as present conditions will permit.

Permanent and well deserved changes have been made in the gymnasium—the stage has been removed, thus securing additional floor space, and new sash has been put in the windows. Both of these important changes have been sadly needed for some time, and the results of our work give to the boys and girls of Cumberland one of the best gymnasiums in this section, with the possible exception of those in the large towns and cities. As soon as conditions become normal again, there is need of further improvements in the hall by way of the installation of electric lights and a more efficient heating system.

Upon the opening of school, in September, two new teachers began their duties as members of the faculty, Mr. Paul G. McIntire assuming the position of instructor in English, Latin and history, and Miss Verna E. Payson that of instructor in domestic science, French and mathematics, the principal retaining the control over the courses in science, bookkeeping and agriculture. Very creditable work has been accomplished in these departments, and the results attained have proven very satisfactory.

Owing to the decreased number of girls coming from other towns and from a distance, it has been found advisable to discontinue the girls' dormitory as such for the remainder of the year, but it has been retained as a laboratory for the cooking courses and as a practice house for household management. It is to be hoped that conditions will warrant its continuance next year, however, as the needs of such a building have long been felt, and the maintenance of such a house has been found to be an important factor in the progress and welfare of our school.

It appears that the most urgent needs of the school at present are more extensive additions to the equipment of the laboratories, including those of the science, domestic science and agricultural departments—a small water storage tank in the building as a safeguard against fires and for other purposes during such times as the present water supply system proves to be inadequate, and an inexpensive system of ventilation. A fireplace in the main room would not only improve the ventilation of the lower half of the building many times, but would also add to its attractiveness. Conditions are so unsettled at present, and the cost of all necessary supplies has advanced to such an extent, that a larger appropriation may have to be asked from the town to overcome these difficulties. Since a community is measured by its educational facilities as well as by other social and civic advantages, it is hoped that the citizens will understand our present needs and will co-operate in our several undertakings. It is needless to say that we are practicing strict economy and propose to continue with this policy to an even more marked degree in the future.

The Alumni Association has proven to be a strong factor in our present emergencies, and a whole lot of credit is due the members for the splendid support and aid they have rendered. There has been manifested a well-defined earnestness of purpose on the part of the student body, from which a true school spirit has developed. It is my earnest belief that, for the best results, a more stable and lasting union between the citizens, parents, teachers, trustees, friends of the school and others is necessary—the number of visitors at the school during the last year was very small. Let us hope that a more decided and pronounced interest will be taken in school affairs by the people in the community during the coming year.

In closing, I wish to extend my personal thanks, as well as those of the school, to all those who have either assisted or who have shown an interest in the school, and to all who have helped to make our presence in the community a pleasure to us. The only request the teachers wish to make is for a more sincere and hearty co-operation.

Respectfully submitted,

NORMAN LYLE MATHEWS,

Principal.

Greely Institute.

School Report.

To the School Committee and Citizens of the Town of Cumberland :

The year 1918 has been one of many discouragements in our school work. At the opening of the fall term in September the attendance was good, but the schools were scarcely well organized when they were closed by the Board of Health, and it has been reorganization and reconstruction from that time until the present. It is not necessary to enter into detail in explaining why this has been an exceptional year, for our citizens understand that the closing of the schools at different periods was due to sickness, which is something beyond the control of the school officials or anyone else. Nearly every town in the state has suffered in consequence of the terrible epidemic that has been raging since last September. Of the 462 towns and cities from which returns have been received by the state department, only 28 are reported as having lost no time.

Progress.

Considering the difficulties we have had to encounter, the schools have made good progress. The teaching force at the present time is one of ability, good scholarship and energy. They have realized that extra burdens have been placed upon them, and they have done their best to meet the contingency. We have the welfare of the children at heart, and the good of those children is the real objective point when we plan and suggest improved school conditions.

A contented rural population is essential to the welfare of our nation. The happiness of a people depends upon the character of their life, the number of comforts in the home and the character of the institutions in the community. From the little rural school must come the development of rural tastes. Picture farm life in such a way that our future residents will be the sons and daughters of the present generation, taught to love the home town and the home life so much that they have no desire to leave them. We have made the fatal mistake in the past of teaching our children that from a financial standpoint they must seek positions in the city, as farming is not a remunerative occupation. Since the introduction of the study of agriculture in our grammar schools, and the agricultural course in our high school, all this has taken on a new phase, and we know that there is "money on the old farm" when it is carried on as any other successful business is carried on. It is not always what the teacher teaches that counts, but the interest she manifests in what she teaches. When our instructors of youth, not only our teachers but the school officials and the parents as well, manifest the same spirit of enthusiasm in relation to nature study and agriculture in our public schools that they manifest in other studies, then we shall see the largest class in agriculture enter Greely Institute that has ever entered that institution to take up any special course of study.

Repairs and Improvements.

We suggested certain repairs and improvements on our school buildings last year when we asked for the appropriations for the school department. These repairs and improvements have been made. The new floor in the West End school building on Chebeague was laid before the opening of the spring term, thus giving the pupils the benefit of this much needed improvement for the entire year. One side of the roof at No. 2 has been shingled, also the outbuildings.

No. 4 has been painted, and the new windows put in at the Centre primary. The needs for the coming year will be the painting of the East End building on Chebeague, a new floor at No. 2 and window shades for Nos. 2, 3 and 4. We have also allowed for the incidental repairs.

Chebeague High School.

At the beginning of the fall term Miss Nevins, of Falmouth, took the place of Miss Cooley, who had rendered such faithful service in this school for the past four years. We have several boys attending the high school at the present time, which is an encouraging feature, and we believe the future outlook for this school is as good as it ever has been since it was started. We urge the loyal support of all. A class of four graduated in June. The exercises were held in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Wednesday evening, June 5th, at eight o'clock. The following program was rendered.

Greely Institute.

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL.

Ideal in location, unsurpassed in environment, with equipment equal to, and in some cases surpassing, other schools of the same standing, and with courses of study suited to the needs of individual students, Greely Institute commends itself to the citizens of Cumberland and other communities. With a history that has proven its efficiency and an alumni which occupy positions of honor and trust, it stands as a strong factor among the educational institutions of the state.

Courses of Study.

The curriculum presents four courses of study, college preparatory, English, domestic science and agriculture. In these courses students may be fitted either for further study in the colleges or for the practical affairs of life.

Special Features.

Young ladies desiring a knowledge of the culinary arts and other branches of household management will find the domestic science course most suitably adapted to their needs. Young men wishing for instruction in agricultural pursuits and vocational training will find here the necessary equipment.

One of the latest developments in the agricultural course is the practical oversight of the work of the student throughout the entire year, this course having been brought within the requirements and benefits of the Smith-Hughes act.

With land sufficient for an extensive school garden, the operating of the new poultry plant, and with herds of thorough-bred dairy stock accessible, the student is enabled to specialize in these subjects in the every-day school life.

An agricultural laboratory, well equipped, in addition to the regular chemical laboratory, with its means of studying at first hand soils, seed and the various phases of farm life, gives to the student ample opportunity to become proficient in this branch.

Needs of the School.

Like other schools we have our needs. May I at this point in this report mention some of these, viz., fume closets in the laboratories, which can be placed with little expense; a ventilating system in the main room, which also can be installed with no great outlay; a lavatory, which is much needed in the sanitary equipment of the school; electric lights in the gymnasium and an electric plate in the kitchen of the domestic science department. These would add greatly to the comfort and efficiency of the school.

Miscellaneous.

We are glad to report that the student body is increasing in numbers and we trust that the coming year will show large additions over this year.

With us, as with other schools, the fall term was somewhat broken, because of influenza, but the work of the term was completed with no loss to those in attendance.

A corps of earnest teachers has shown vital interest in the work and welfare of the school in an endeavor to continue the high standard of the past.

In closing this report, I wish to thank those who have shown in so many ways their interest in this institution, and to bespeak even a larger and more co-operative interest in the year to come.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES E. JONES, Principal.

PERAMBULATION OF FALMOUTH AND CUMBERLAND LINE.

Agreeably to a notice given to the Town of Cumberland by the Town of Falmouth to meet at the M. E. Church, Cumberland Foreside, on the 12th day of November, 1919, at 9.30 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of perambulating and running the lines between said Towns, and reviewing the marks and bounds, we, the subscribers, Selectmen of said Towns, have met at the time and place, and for the purpose aforesaid, and do make the following return of our doings, to wit:—

Beginning at the white rock on the seashore marked F. and C., and running N. $41\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$ W. to a stone monument on the first County road, thence same course to a stone monument on second County road, thence same course to stone monument on the Harris road, so-called, thence same course to stone monument on the third County road, thence same course to stone monument on N. W. side of the fourth County road, thence same course to stone monument on Shaw Town road, thence same course to stone monument on the fifth County road, thence same course to monument on the old Gray and Portland road, thence same course one hundred sixty-two (162) rods to a stone monument at the west corner of Cumberland; said monument is marked with the letters W. F. & C., and is located in a swamp near a birch.

All monuments on said line are marked with the letters F and C.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto mutually set our hands this 12 day of November, 1919.

ALGERNON BOWIE,
S. G. HUSTON,
C. M. DURGIN,
Selectmen of Falmouth.

GEORGE W. JORDAN, Town Clerk.

School Report.

To the School Committee and Citizens of the Town of Cumberland:

That a new spirit in education has taken hold of the country is not hard to see; but just what the outcome of this attitude will be, remains to be proved in the near future. Many of the new movements are in their infancy, and many of the enactments made by the legislature have the support of the people because they know they will be of nation-wide benefit; but the problems that cause the voters and interested citizens in general, in our small country towns, some anxiety, are the ones that require our hearty support and unselfish action. To those who have not given our public schools much thought or attention it may appear on the surface that there is some mismanagement somewhere; but we feel assured that those who have made existing conditions a study, will readily see that we must comply with present requirements or the machine will cease to move.

The welfare of our public schools is of great importance, and this broadening of the view has been going on for a long time. For the past three years this nationalistic idea has received new emphasis. That future citizens must have better mental preparation, stronger bodies, and a greater sense of patriotic obligation than their parents had before them, is now a widespread conviction. This added responsibility is placed upon the teacher and this leads me to say a word in regard to our Cumberland teachers and Teachers' Salaries.

Our teachers on the whole have been faithful and have endeavored to do good work. Owing to the shortage of teachers we have been obliged to employ some who have had no experience. With one exception, three of this class employed in this town have done very good work. The experienced and trained teachers employed have been second to none. As we were unable to meet the larger increase in salaries offered by other towns and cities, we lost two of our best teachers. Your committee has asked for a large increase in the appropriations for support of schools; we must pay our teachers larger salaries or give them up to other towns in this or other states. We believe a good teacher is worth just as much, or even more, for the town of Cumberland as she is for any other town, if she has given evidence that she is an excellent teacher for that particular school.

The teaching force in our public schools at the present time is a very independent class and we rejoice that such is the case, for certainly the poor, underpaid teacher has not been able to show her independent spirit in the past. A teacher who has been teaching for $500 or less per year and is offered $750 or $800 with the promise of an increase cannot be condemned for accepting said position providing the change is made in an honorable way. An increase of but $2 per week will mean an increase of $576 in our appropriations. The percentage of increase for fuel, conveyance and janitors is equally as large.

In making our recommendations we have kept in mind the following facts and principles:

First, the teacher's salary should be large enough to provide a living wage, which means that she should live in comfort, do such reading and studying as are necessary to keep her in touch with progressive movements in education and take part in the social life of the community.

Second, the salary should be large enough not only for present needs but for a reasonable margin for a savings account.

Third, the maximum salary should be large enough to retain our best teachers.

Fourth, it should be large enough to enable teachers to develop and improve their teaching powers.

Course of Study.

The "Course of Study", compiled by the State department, was put into the schools at the opening of the fall term in September. It is an eight-year course, but is working out satisfactorily.

Progress.

The schools have made excellent progress owing to our good fortune in being able to retain several of our best teachers, and when vacancies occurred trained teachers were secured when possible. In the instance cited elsewhere in this report experienced teachers were employed but resigned just before the schools were scheduled to open, thus leaving the employing agent in a difficult position. It was either an inexperienced teacher or close the school.

This report is not based wholly upon my own judgment, as I have visited the schools and observed carefully the good work being done, but upon the excellent reports given me by interested parents.

The work in grammar the past year has been much more satisfactory than the preceding year, as our teachers have been taking up work suggested in our new course of study, which is in line with that taken in the high school. History is still at the front and pupils are taking it up in a thorough manner as is shown by their daily recitations and monthly test papers.

Repairs and Improvements.

The repairs suggested last year have been made. The new floor has been laid at No. 2 and the building painted. The East End building on Chebeague has also been painted. The greatest need the coming year is a building at the Chebeague high school for the storage of wood, as the wood now has to be stored in the entry and what cannot be stored there must remain out of doors. Good fuel has been furnished and it should be properly housed. New floors at the Centre primary and No. 7 would be a great improvement as the present floors are quite badly worn in some places and these are the only buildings in town where new floors have not been laid within the past few years.

Chebeague High School.

Miss Nevens was re-elected for this school for another year. The interest has been good. Some fine work in composition has been done owing to interest manifested by the teacher and several of the parents who have children in the school. Some special features have been introduced creating some competition of the right sort.

A class of three graduated. The exercises were held at the Methodist Church, Wednesday, June 11, 1919.

Greely Institute.

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL FOR 1919-1920.

Greely Institute is, and has been for a number of years, a Class A High School. This means that its graduates are accepted on presentation of their diplomas, without further examination at any of the different colleges in the State, provided their course of study has included the subjects required for admission. Every effort is made to maintain the high standard in the school which is necessary to retain that privilege and to encourage the students to take advantage of it. Last year the attendance was a little smaller than in former years but the average of the studies was very high considering the time which was lost on account of the great amount of illness.

Courses of Study.

The curriculum presents four courses of study: College Preparatory, English, Domestic Science, and Agriculture. Both the domestic science and the agricultural courses prepare the student for further training in those branches at the State University as well as give a practical training for actual work if the student cannot go to college. The agricultural course is now under the direction of the State Board for Vocational Education under the Smith-Hughes Act, which will be discussed more in detail later in the report.

The Institute building is modern in every respect, with electric lights, hot-water heating plant, and running water from the town supply. It contains a well-equipped physics and chemistry laboratory and a special agricultural room and laboratory as well. The text-books are kept up to date, the new editions and texts being adopted as soon as they are recognized as standard. The supply of reference books in the library is adequate for all the studies pursued and is added to each year.

Needs of the School.

One or two improvements could and should be made to increase the efficiency of the building and its laboratories. The heating plant should be increased so as to make it possible to work in the laboratories in even the coldest weather if the best use is to be made of them. A lavatory for both the boys and girls would be a welcome addition to the toilet facilities in the basement. Additional seats will be necessary another year for the assembly room on the second floor.

Special Opportunities.

From the date of its foundation in 1868, Greely Institute has made itself the educational center for a large territory. Its unusually well-equipped building and the invariably high standard of its teaching force, supported and guided as it has been by an active Board of Trustees, has attracted students from many of the surrounding towns as well as from Cumberland itself. Many of the students have walked or driven long distances to attend the school and the attendance has been high.

Within the last few years, however, the advent of the two electric lines, with the easy access which they afford to the city schools has narrowed the territory quite a good deal. The attendance has naturally decreased somewhat although not in the same proportion, as students still come from along the lines and beyond. Certain events which have occurred about the same time have, however, opened to Greely Institute an opportunity for growth and development such as it never has had before. These events are the recognition, all over the country, of the need of vocational education in the high schools, the passage by Congress in 1917 of the Smith-Hughes Act which gives Federal aid for the teaching of practical agriculture and kindred subjects in the high schools of the country, and the acceptance by this State of its share in the funds which this act makes available.

The Smith-Hughes Act.

Briefly, the Smith-Hughes Act does this: It provides funds to aid in the purchase of equipment, payment of teachers, and the general maintenance of courses along vocational lines, chiefly in agriculture, domestic science and the trades. To secure its proportion of these funds each school must meet certain high standards as to the amount of its equipment, the qualifications of its teachers and the general practical nature of its courses. Greely Institute has met these requirements as far as its agricultural work is concerned, and expects to meet them for its domestic science work in the near future.

Situated as it is, in the heart of a prosperous farming section, where successful examples of widely different types of farming, several large greenhouses, and numerous purebred herds of dairy and beef cattle are available to supplement its own laboratory, its location is ideal for agricultural work. With all the material and equipment, including land, for as extensive and practical a course in agriculture as is desired, already in the possession of the school it can and should be made one of the largest agricultural schools in the State. The same thing both as to material and opportunity, is true of the domestic science work as well.

The great demand for teachers and the constantly increasing salaries are turning more and more of our high school students toward that line of work. The work in English, mathematics, history and science required of the vocational students forms a foundation which, with a few special courses, should make the English, or teacher-training course, of equal importance with the others. All of the courses, if carefully outlined, will give sufficient preparation for further training along the same lines in college.

One of the greatest things about Greely Institute has been the enthusiastic co-operation and aid which the town has given the Trustees and the school. This same co-operation and help is urged for the new advance which is sure to come.

Respectfully submitted,

E. H. DANFORTH,
Principal.

GEORGE W. JORDAN, Town Clerk.

School Report.

To the School Committee and Citizens of the Town of Cumberland:

Again I am called upon to present the annual report relative to the progress of our public schools. At no time since my connection with the schools of Cumberland have I been able to give a more satisfactory outline of what we have been accustomed to present to the town for consideration. When the tax payers of the town meet in March to appropriate money to pay the legal expenses of running the town, it is their desire and right to know what has become of the funds appropriated and raised the preceding year. The expense of running our public schools has nearly doubled since 1917. The pay roll for our common school teachers in 1917 was $85 each week. In 1920 it was $160. The janitor service has doubled; conveyance, increased 25 per cent.; fuel, 290 per cent.; supplies, more than double; text-books, 75 per cent.

The extra money raised last year has been well expended. We feel quite sure that the interested citizens of the town will bear us out in this statement, for in the majority of our schools we have teachers second to none. We haven't as many trained teachers as last year, but they are teachers of experience, or those thoroughly interested and alive to the welfare of their schools.

Since the opening of the schools in September no changes have been made, and it is the desire of the School Board, backed by the citizens of the several districts, to retain for another year those teachers who have given general satisfaction. The greatest detriment to the progress of any school, large or small, is the frequent change of teachers. The recently organized Parent-Teacher Association will bring the mothers and the teachers closer together, and the longer they co-operate together in school and community life, the greater will be the progress in raising the standards of education in the town.

In making our recommendations we have still kept in mind the facts and principles printed in last year's report, which we hope you have not forgotten. We refer you to page 27 instead of taking the space to have them re-printed.

Attendance.

Owing to the delightful weather we have had during the fall and winter, the attendance—barring the advent of measles, which came during the fall vacation and delayed the opening of the winter term—has been unusually good. The cardinal virtues of the school are regular attendance and punctuality, and it is the duty of the parents to help form these habits in the children while young. Let us work for a 90 per cent. average attendance next year. Our average this year is 84 per cent. The smaller schools have the highest average.

Progress

At the commencement of the fall term the work in grammar was made a specialty. I urged upon the teachers the necessity for extra effort in this study, commencing with the sixth grade. The teaching of more technical grammar must be taken up with that grade in order to have the work in English what it should be when the pupils enter high school. The new History and Civil Government of Maine, by our Deputy Superintendent, Glenn W. Starkey, will be taken up by the seventh and eighth grades at the opening of the spring term. The pupils of Cumberland have done fine work in United States' history, but the eighth grade needed the rest of the winter term to complete the work outlined for the first semester, therefore thought it best not to put in the Maine history as a text-book until that time.

Repairs and Improvements.

Outside of the general repairs but little has been done. A building for the storage of fuel at the high school building on Chebeague is a crying necessity, calling louder and louder each year. The new floors mentioned in last year's report are still needed, the extra year's wear not having improved them in the least. The high cost of material kept the committee from taking action this year. The installation of chemical toilets at No. 7, the Tuttle road school and the East End and West End schools on Chebeague should be considered by the town and acted upon in the near future.

A bill will be brought before the present legislature asking for the passage of a law compelling towns to have their school buildings properly lighted, heated and ventilated, and toilets that are sanitary and connected with the school room, said improvements to be completed before the year 1925. Let us commence now and make one building each year meet these requirements.

Chebeague High School.

The same teacher, Miss Nevens, was retained for another year. No graduating class in June, 1920. The interest manifested and work accomplished have been quite satisfactory. It must be taken into consideration that the work in this school is very hard for one teacher, she having charge of the four classes in all the studies. The work in French and in English has been excellent.

Music.

When the schools opened in September your committee felt that the time had arrived when we could have music taught in our public schools. Miss Snow, after taking a special course in music during the summer, was willing and anxious to take up this work in all the Cumberland schools. The results have been very satisfactory, as Miss Snow has been very enthusiastic in doing the most that she could in the time given to this lesson. The experimental stage is now past, and we depend upon the opinion of the people to help us decide upon the expediency of continuing this progressive movement in our schools. The art of music is one that should be cultivated, and as the "singing school" is practically a thing of the past, the public school seems to be the only place outside the home where our children can get any special training. When God has given us this talent it ought not to lie pormant.

Greely Institute.

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL FOR 1920-1921.

Greely Institute serves as the high school for the town of Cumberland and several of the surrounding towns. It is a Class A school with certification privileges with all of the Maine colleges. As those of its graduates who are now attending college are maintaining a very high standard in their work, it bids fair to retain that privilege indefinitely.

Last year a class of four was graduated with honors, all four having maintained an average rank of above ninety throughout their course. One of these will attend the University of Maine this fall, one is now in business college, the third is teaching in a neighboring town and the fourth has a position in Portland. The present senior class has eight members, five of whom are planning to continue their studies at college, and one who is considering advanced work along special lines.

This year a somewhat higher average attendance has been maintained, due largely to the fact that the entering class was three times the size of the outgoing class. The majority of this class have done good work, showing good preparation in the graded schools of the town.

Courses of Study.

The curriculum is divided into four courses of study: College Preparatory, English, Domestic Science and Agriculture. The college preparatory course is designed to meet the entrance requirements of the colleges. The work in English has been reorganized this year and new books purchased, so that all the new requirements in that subject may be fully met from year to year. The work in composition was so good that it was decided to try and publish a school paper. The first issue appeared in December, and it is planned to publish one or two more during the year. It aroused quite a good deal of interest and the students worked hard for it. New books have been introduced in medieval and modern European history, which put the present organization of those courses in line with many of the larger schools.

Algebra has been made a required subject for all of the first year students. This step has been taken because of the fundamental nature of this subject with regard to much of the other work in high school, and also because, having the algebra, it is not as difficult for the student who decides in his second or third year that he wishes to attend college to fit himself for college entrance.

As all of the students in the school are included in the English, mathematics and history classes, regardless of their other special studies, all receive the advantage of the college standards maintained in these subjects. The individual schedules are being straightened out as fast as possible, so that each student will pursue a complete, well-rounded course of study.

The English course follows much the same lines as the college preparatory course with the modifications which the State Department specify shall form a part of such a course. A sufficiently high average of attendance is maintained in this course to make the school eligible to the State and academy aid.

Very satisfactory progress has been made in the domestic science courses. The cooking class, in addition to their regular work, have served a hot noon lunch daily during the winter term to fifteen or twenty of the students who have to eat their dinners at the school. The domestic science work is carried on on a "part-time" basis, that is, half of the teacher's time is given to the domestic science work, while the other half is required for other subjects and for study room supervision.

This is also true of the agricultural work, as only half of the teacher's time can be given to strictly agricultural subjects, while the remainder is fully occupied in other departments of the school. As the amount of aid which is received from the State is based on the time that the teacher gives to the subject, this limits considerably the possible aid which might be received for both these courses.

In addition to their work in school, each student in the agricultural course either carries on a definite enterprise of a practical nature at home or works on a farm during the summer months. Last year several boys had very successful projects of corn and beans, and two others raised market produce and carried it to the public market in Portland.

That there is a demand and a need for this course is shown by the fact that two-thirds of the boys in the school are enrolled in the agricultural classes, and seventy-five per cent. of them are definitely planning to remain on the farm. Very few of these boys can continue their training at college, so that whatever knowledge they get of the fundamental principles of good agriculture, and whatever training they get in putting these principles into practice, they must get while still in high school. The need is there and the opportunity is there, just as the need and opportunity lie in all other lines of development, and it is Greely Institute's duty and privilege, which it is trying to fill, to see that all of the students who come to it are given the sort of training which will help them make the most of their lives.
